Jack Everett

One being my mind in the spring of 1963 tired after a good day's work at the office, not well-satisfied with life--who could be otherwise after the hearty meal I had just enjoyed--I rested my head against the back of my comfortable arm chair, let my nervousness fall to the floor, and dozed off, accompanying the soft music of the radio with a gentle snore. As that melody began to play, I began to dream. I saw myself a noble (not a trader) and in down a country lane towards a group of farmhouses. I met a group of men, some of whom were, I learned, growing fruits and vegetables for winter use. I learned from them that John and I were to be called upon, as Doctors of Agriculture, grow these foods using the most perfect fertilizer which they had created.

I left the country and traveled along the greatest and fastest highway in the world. In the suburb of Niagara, now the capital of the world, I stopped at the Municipal Airport. Here I found a large crowd of people of which was the largest airplane in the world about to take off. I discovered the pilot to be Nelson Phelps, who was the commander of the Air Force. His co-pilot was Ted Savarick, Soldier of Fortune, looking for new worlds to conquer.

Returning to the Niagara, I continued on my way towards Niagara. Along the highway I noticed advertisements of the latest cinema and television attractions, also telephotos of Admiral Donald Marton reviewing his great Naval Fleet. Carl Dodge produced these advertisements.

In the city of Niagara, I traversed the campus of the World College, where I met Jack Webster, Doctor of Modern History and Director of Athletics of the college. I also met the President of the college, a very fine man, who was in the field of economics.

On entering theropolis of Niagara, I was amazed to find that the latest skyscraper was owned by one man, a bookkeeper who kept account of corporations all over the globe. His name was Elroy Finnato. I also learned that the architectural and artistic features of the city were created by the government's own civil engineer, a woman at that--none other than Joan Thomas.

Passing through the City Park, I heard a soap box orator attempting to revive his beloved old Democratic Party. When I asked his name, he said he was Robert Bailey. At the amphitheater in the park, I stopped to hear Margaret Griffen and her Symphonic Orchestra give a delightful concert under the stars. As we, in her spellbound audience sat enthralled by beautiful music, music of another tone was heard. I awoke to the song of birds rejoicing the dawn of a new day. Of, well, it was nice seeing you in my dreams, anyway, old classmates of 1943.

C L A S S P O E M

Four years have passed.

We, the Class of 1943

Have spent them together.

Now each of us is free

To choose his own path.

We graduate in time of war,

We realize and will do our part

For have we not memories

Each well stored in our hearts

Of peaceful days spent at S. H. S?

Memories of classmates and friends

Of hours of work and play--

All that made up a "schooling"

And filled so much of each day

With fun and laughter and tears.

Joan Thomas

CLASS HISTORY

Then finally the Class of 1948 came in reverent dignity at the threshold of our school, we take time to review quickly the events of the past four years.

On a warm autumn morning in 1931, eleven little children marched shyly to the Sackett Harbor School for the first time to greet their new teacher, Miss Addy. We all considered it the most serious stage in our education--modeling with clay, drawing and making new friends.

The following year we entered the second grade under the instruction of Miss Weston (now Mrs. Lee). Here we were joined by Bob Reed, Johnny Jackson and Ted Smith. That year we focused our minds more on our school work and forgot our "naughty tricks."

With promotions in June ever one passed to the third grade. We were very happy in returning to school since we were assigned to an entirely new modernized room. Our teacher was Miss Walrath.

Again we all passed into the fourth grade. Here we spent our year studying hard, making sillhouettes and freestyle art. Our teacher, Miss Miller (now Mrs. Stratton), put on a Christmas play in which we all participated. In mid-year the class was increased by Charles Karrison, who had moved from California. In June, we spent an industrious week preparing for the commencement exercises, which were a great success.

Success was with us again as we all moved into the fifth grade where Jack Everett joined us. Our teacher, Miss Musick, was very good to us and with our permission, a group of us sponsored a short Chinese play. We remember this year also as the first year in which we received music instruction, under Miss Gross. Every Friday the fourth grade would join us and we would have a sing-in, which tended to make our school hours brighter.

In 1936, in the sixth grade with Miss Tacon, as our teacher, we really got down to business. Each of us really received a letter below 80 and if we did, we were considered "poor students." We will always remember the "pin-ball" board on which each of us autographed our names.

The succeeding year, or our Junior High, we toiled in pride and earnest to finish our first reports, geography and spelling. Passing from room to room and having a teacher for each subject was unfamiliar to us all. Miss Carter was our home room teacher.

Our last elementary year, a joyous and momentous one, was characterized by the leadership of Mr. Scallio's leadership, we all advanced to our freshman year. We all felt grown up and had accomplished a great deal. This year was a year of the centralization of the school by which we all now concentrate upon our studies, agriculture and land. Several new students joined our group. Among them, Alice and Audrey Branche, Paulie Carley, Gloria Flano, Karl and several others. Tomlin, Mary Gardner, Bill Lavanchard, and many others.

In 1933, when our respective Freshman Class assembled, thirty-five students gathered to elect their officers. Mr. Scallio was our Class Advisor, class of 1933 was elected: Elroy Kimball as president, Carl Jones as vice-president, and Joanne Jackson as secretary and treasurer. With the exception of the refilling of the book, no other activities were worth mentioning. Bill Leisick and Orville Local left us the latter semester.

Our sophomore year in which very few inter-class activities were held, was a tranquil one, but many changes had taken place in our school. Miss Pappan, our English teacher, joined the faculty. "Jo" Kelly was our president, Jack Kelly was vice-president, and Elroy Kimball was secretary and treasurer. Carley Orvis joined our class.

In our junior year of High School, very little change had to be placed, with the exception of having Mr. Gressel and Mr. Smith joining the faculty. The Junior Prom in June and the winter dance just before Christmas, were the two special occasions of this year. Jimmy LaFleur furnished music for the dance, which was a huge success. Four Seniors left us this term: "Jo" Kelly, Roy Iverson, Kenny Anderson and Charles De Cock. Kenny was the first member of our class to join the Armed Forces, he was sent to Harris Island. Joanne Jackson, through her interest and ability, left us this term to graduate with the Seniors.

Finally, the school's greatest effort was to win the first post in the hard race between us, destiny, and merit. At last we had won the honor of being Seniors. With two new additions to our group, Lester Couper and Claron Thomas, we set out in a "year of excitement" by electing class of 1934--Joan Thomas, president; Carl Jones, vice-president; and Elroy Kimball, secretary and treasurer. We all toiled through arduous and conscientious work, as well as in Character Cards, ice cream, sponsoring the "League", and such extra-curricular activities.

We could not truthfully say that we had all fun here during these past four years, but it has been agreed that our disappointments have been outweighed by our good times. We bid a reluctant good-bye, in a time of turmoil and strife, to our school and schoolmates. We find that we regret nothing except the loss of old friends and hope that the next year's graduating class will have as many happy memories as we have.

Leroy Kimball

BASKETBALL

Along about basketball season high school athletics and their supporters began to "feel the pinch" of rationing gas and tires. Despite this drawback, a varsity team was formed of veteran players, David Russell, Carl Dodge, Jack Everett, Ted Sawchuck, and Robert Graves. These boys had the fighting spirit and triumphed over four formidable rivals, suffering defeat at its hands of the other five opponents on their schedule.

JACK VERITY

A lively and aggressive aggression was the Jack Verity. Out of a total of 12 games, this younger of the two played the last three. Jack Eula, Len Brown, Walter Campbell, James Bagley, Edward Everett, Donat Williams, James Ward played regularly. Their experience and make the success of the team. This team certainly was a good one.

It was the first time that a part of the team had been in the game. In the first, second and third games they had been in the game. In the fourth game they had been in the game. In the fifth game they had been in the game. In the sixth game they had been in the game. In the seventh game they had been in the game. In the eighth game they had been in the game. In the ninth game they had been in the game. In the tenth game they had been in the game. In the eleventh game they had been in the game. In the twelfth game they had been in the game.

BASEBALL

The Sackett Harbor baseball team of 1942 was very successful. Although most of the team was composed of new players we won half our games and lost half. The boys participating were Donald Emerton, Ted Seidler, Alfred Lync, Theodore Sawchuck, Jack Everett Royer McBrath, Robert Braves, Kenneth Parker, Stuart Graves, Harold McMahon and Keith White.

FOOTBALL

In the beginning of the season the prospects of a football team for Back to School sports. Certainly our physical education instructor, a girl, couldn't coach a football team! We were very much concerned with such a problem and at last, after considering what to do. Finally a solution presented itself in the person of our well respected Principal, Mr. Huttemann. When appealed to by Mr. Stratton, he, our representative, Mr. Huttemann agreed to assume the job of coaching.

Although our school season could not be classed as highly successful one, all the boys profited by the experience gained and by chance to enjoy the sport. We won one game and lost five. Those participants were Stuart Graves, Carl Dodge, Theodore Savage, Jack Everett, Donald Stratton, Louis Cannon, David Russell, Robert Graves, Jack Zula, James Piazza, Robert Lencraville, Richard King, and Robert Ivce.

CHEERLEADERS

As our four cheerleaders were leading a victorious cheer against Dexter, this picture was snapped. For the first time in the history of the school, letters were awarded for their active participation at all games. They are from left to right: Mildred Mc Grath, Jean Contrickoff, Pauline Hayden, and Sally Phillips

ACTIVITIES

ORCHESTRA

This year marked the initiation of a new music teacher, Miss Geraldine Edwards, who has cooperated vigorously with those participating in the various music organizations.

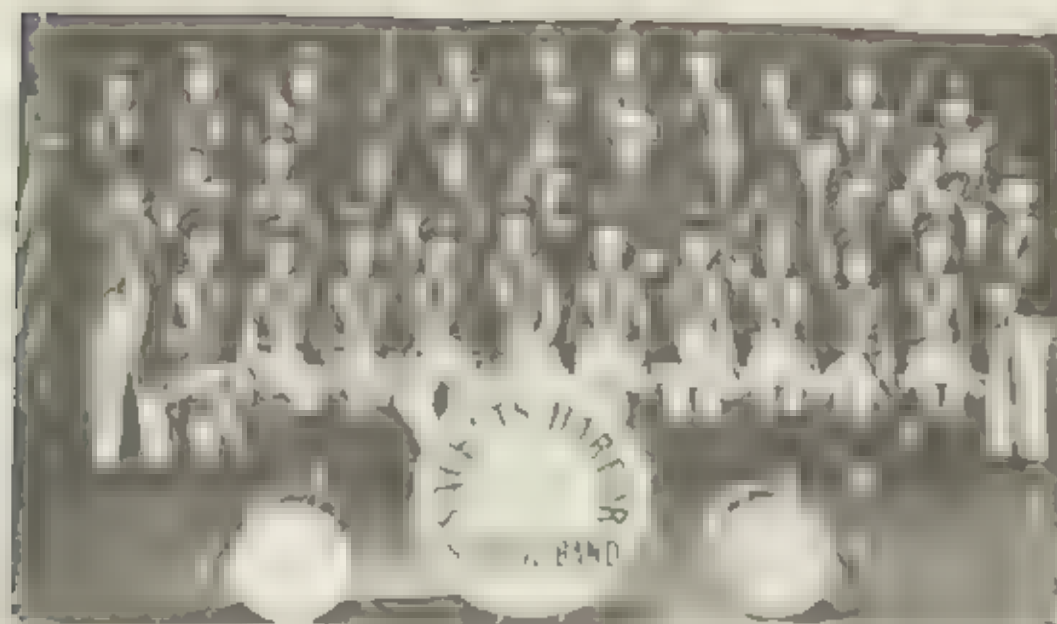

The orchestra, under the direction of Miss Edwards had the privilege of playing at the dedication of the Honor Roll Plaque held at the U.S.C. No greater compliment could have been given to any organization than that one. The orchestra reached an even greater climax while playing "March of the Little Wooden Soldiers", and selections from "High School Pinafore" at the Annual Spring Concert.

The officers of this organization are: President, Fannie Alverson and Sec. and Treas., Sally Phillips.

NIAHOURE

The NIAHOURE, title of our yearbook, is the name of the Alsea tribe, who once anchored their canoes beneath its cliffs, called Saco's Harbor. This land was the site of the famous battle and lasting wounds and a severe battle ground of blood were between different Indian tribes. Its banks are the scene of many Indian legends.

CHALLENGER

The Challenger was organized in 1937 with Bill McGroarty as the first editor. Now in the 11th year of publication, many alterations have taken place with Pauline Hayden as editor.

Several members of the staff went to the Maine State Democratic Press Convention held at Brunswick last fall. The paper was financed by subscriptions and the sale of candy.

Lisa Farns, as adviser, has brought the Challenger on to a state school paper and with the cooperation of the staff, a state rating is sought in the future.

Members of the staff in the picture are;
